They Had No Banks

IN pioneer days the general merchant often kept the money of his customers for them — there were no banks. Buying and selling were largely by barter only.

The coming of the branch bank filled an important need in every community, and to-day the wise farmer, business man or private individual keeps his money in the bank and makes full use of the many services it has to offer.

LADY RODDICK DONATES NEW UNIV. GATES

Plans Under Consideration by Newly Formed Committee

FITTING MEMORIAL

Interesting and Useful Career of Dr. Roddick at McGill

An announcement of great interest to students and friends of Old McGill was issued on Saturday by the University authorities when it became known that a donation of $50,000 had been received from Lady Roddick to be devoted to the erection of memorial gates at the entrance to the University grounds on Sherbrooke Street. The purpose of this was to provide a fitting tribute to the life and work of her late husband, Sir Thomas Roddick, who for many years was connected with the Medical staff of McGill, occupying the position of Professor of Surgery and Dean of the faculty of Medicine, while later, on retiring, he became a governor of the University.

To this end a committee was formed to which Sir Herbert Holt is chairman and the other members are Principal Sir Arthur Currie, M. F. Cleveland Morgan, Dr. Harrison of McDonald College, Mr. P. S. Glassco and Mr. Miller. This committee is holding a meeting with Hon. George Foster K.C., representing Lady Roddick and Mr. Gratton Thompson, a graduate of the Department of Architecture, to discuss the plans and erection of the gates.

It is fitting at this time to point out some of the point of interest in the career of one of McGill's most illustrious medical men. Coming to the University from Harbour Grace, Newfoundland, Sir Thomas graduated from the Medical School here in 1866, winning the Holmes Gold Medal and immediately became Assistant House-surgeon in the Montreal General Hospital. Following this, he shortly became Demonstrator of Anatomy and in 1875 succeeded Dr. George Fenwick to the position of Professor of Clinical Surgery and full surgeon to the Hospital. He became a very careful and painstaking surgeon and was noted especially for his success in the diagnosis and treatment of fractures. As a

ACCLAMATION FOR T. MILES GORDON

Secretary of Arts Undergraduate Society Elected

Nominations for the office of Secretary of the Arts Undergraduate Society closed Saturday night at 6 p.m. T. Miles Gordon of Arts '27 was elected by acclamation.

The secretary is always elected from the Freshman year and the nominations were required to be in writing and signed by the members of the Arts Undergraduate Society.

As the office goes by acclamation there will be no necessity to have any election on Wednesday as was planned.

The nomination of Gordon shows that the faculty was of one mind. Gordon hails from Sarnia Ontario and is one of the most energetic members of the year.

Following is the nomination:

We the undersigned members of the Arts Undergraduate Society hereby nominate Thomas Miles Gordon Arts '27 for the position of secretary of the Arts Undergraduate Society.

Theodore F. M. Newton, F. M. Reid, T. G. Adams, C. D. Everett, Paul Smith, H. D. MacMillan, A. G. Nairn, William. Jl. Gardner, Cecil. T. Teakle, Robert V. Fortune.

McGill football casualties have now reached four in number, Philpott, who is still in the hospital and suffering from a badly dislocated shoulder, is expected to be out again this evening. Although the nature of his injury will cause his absence from the team for the rest of the season.

Baker, while he has no broken bones is suffering from a strained ligament in his hand; and Newton and Wilson are laid off at present with fractured noses. The boys have the sympathy and good wishes of all McGill students.

F. P. JONES TO ADDRESS THE COMMERCIALS

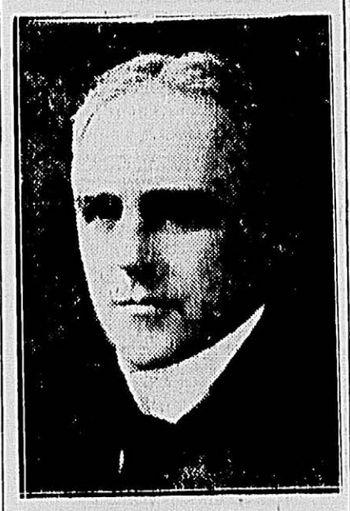

At Meeting of Their Society Next Thursday

BUSINESS HEAD

Is a Director in Many Important Enterprises

On Thursday evening the students of the School of Commerce will have the privilege of hearing Mr. Jones, President and General Manager of the Canada Cement Co.. Mr. Jones is one of Canada's greatest business men.

MR. F. P. JONES

To Address Commercial Society

As well as holding the two above positions, he is a director of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, Montreal Trust Co., Ontario Steel Products Ltd., and many others. His native home is Brockville, Ontario., where he received his elementary education. After attending the Royal Military College he started his business career as salesman for the Nova Scotia Steel Co. From then on he held several positions as Sales Manager in different Companies until he entered the Canada Cement Co., as Gen. manager and later President.

The Senior years would like to impress upon the Freshmen the essential need of their support. They wish them to understand that it is with much difficulty that men of such call-

PLANS FOR DEBATE AND PARLIAMENT

For Interfaculty contests and bating Society

DATES SET

For Interfaculty Debates and for Mock Parliament

Preliminary arrangements for this year's debates and sessions of Mock Parliament were made at yesterday's meeting of the Literary and Debating Society, with Howard O'Hagan in the chair.

The meeting decided that, with the funds at their disposal, they should either send a debating team on a trip through the States, or obtain a debating coach. It was considered quite possible that the debating team might be able to pay expenses out of its guarantees. In this case, both ideas could be carried out. The value of a coach to develop debaters was stressed by several of the members. It was stated that at present the Uversty has no real means of teaching the art of debating to new men.

The idea of sending a debating team to England was also brought up and met with approval. The president had talked over the matter with the members of the Oxford debaters when they were here, and they said there could be no doubts of the success of such a project. At this point there was some discussion on the merits of the English style of debating as compared with McGill's and the Old Country method of decision as compared with the Canadian. The secretary was instructed to send a note of thanks to the McGill men who debated against the Oxford team and who did much work in preparation for the debate, and also to those who acted as judges on that occasion.

The members then turned to the question of appointing dates for the various University debates. The Intercollegiate debates will be held the last of February and the first of March, with McGill at Toronto and Queen's at McGill on the first night. Four McGill men will be chosen, two for each team. These men will be picked from those displaying the most ability in the Interfaculty Debates and

CERCLE FRANCAIS MEETS TO-NIGHT

First Meeting of Season This Evening

The opening meeting of the Cercle Francaise will be held in the reading room of the Union tonight at 8.15 p. m. and it is hoped that a large number of students of all faculties will be present.

Since its foundation in 1905, the Cercle Francais has been one of the most important and active clubs at McGill. Its chief aim is to familiarize students with the French language, and with the spirit and ideas of the French people.

McGill is the foremost university in the teaching of French on this continent, this being chiefly due to its situation in a large French speaking community. The Cercle has always been able to secure prominent French speakers to give addresses, and in this respect it is anticipated that the club will be exceptionally fortunate this year.

It is generally recognized that the best way to learn a language is to listen to good speakers and to speak it as much as possible. For this reason the club holds debates which are very interesting and instructive; sometimes musical numbers are added to the program.

Last seasoon was one of the most successful in the history of the club. The members had the privilege of hearing Professors Leacock, Robert, D'Abbi, Doctor Brandt and others and also held several debates and a banquet. It is intended this year to arrange parties to visit the French theatres in the city.

The membership fee has been reduced to 50 cents.

NEWS BOARD MEETING

The Daily News Board will meet on Thursday afternoon at five o'clock. There are a number of important matters to be discussed and it is essential that every member be present.

Bull Durham smoking tobacco seems to have quite an impression on some of our men students. Is it due to financial embarrassment, or is it the novelty of swaggering down the avenue with the little round tag dangling from the pocket of a "gambler" vest?

MONTREAL, TUESDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1923.

THE OPPOSITE TO CO-OPERATION

The Daily at all times appreciates the interest in the paper by all its readers and welcomes co-operation from undergraduates and also members of the faculty. In particular it has been grateful for news articles submitted by men who are not members of the Daily staff but who are perhaps particularly conversant with the activity they have been kind enough to report.

A somewhat different stand has been taken, however, by certain men in the University, namely that of coming into the Daily office and requesting that they be allowed to read news articles in which they are interested, but in the preparation of which they had no part. Up to date the respective editors have acceded to these requests very frequently at cost of time to themselves and consequent delay in the office. The climax was reached last week when no less than four men in one evening requested permission to review articles.

The Daily sincerely regrets that it is not in a position to allow supervision of its columns by any outside of the paper's staff, as the members of that staff are held responsible for the material in consequent delay in the office. The climax was reached early last week when no less than four men in one evening requested permission to review articles.

The Daily is forced to take this stand on account of the serious delay caused last week by the presence of these non-members of the staff and the Managing Board requests that only those men writing articles, or submitting completed articles, occupy the offices of this publication. The editors trust that the readers fully understand the reasons for this editorial and hope for even greater co-operation in the future than in the past.

THE FEDERATED CHARITIES

The Federated Charities are holding their second annual campaign during the present week. These organizations, which have united for financial strength, are accomplishing a great work throughout the city, for they are trying to give the underprivileged a chance in the battle commonly called Life. The greater proportion of the undergraduate body can scarcely realize what it means to be struggling underneath in the fight for existence. All of us have had at least a fairly decent taste of learning for we are here in what is commonly called a sphere of 'higher education.' A very few of us may have witnessed or felt the bitter side of life during our earlier days but to-day we do not have to face continually the possibilities of hunger or starvation nor, by living in hovels and filth, are we exposed to all the ravages of multifarious diseases.

The students and the members of the professoriate are being asked to support the present drive for finances to carry on manifold activities. We belong to the ranks of the privileged and it will be well if we remember this and "have a heart."

WHEN SUNSHINE DIMS.

It's a bright morning and you march in for an eight o'clock lecture with a fine feeling of interest and a noble resolve to get the most out of the hour. The "prof" looks good-natured and interesting and you take an advantageous seat where you can catch every word. As you sit down, you nod a pleasant good morning to Smith on your right and Jones on your left and Williams across the aisle. Then you take out your pen, open your note book and wait with ambitous expectancy. The lecture is about to begin but a few late arrivals cause confusion and you chafe at the delay. Finally the lecture begins.

You are scribbling notes furiously when you feel Adams in back of you put his foot on the bench in which you are sitting and you get a mental picture of dusty shoes rubbing against a clean coat. You wriggle in your seat but Adams refuses to take the hint and, somewhat aggravated, you return to work.

Smith on your right begins to chew gum with loud smacking relish and a pungent disagreable odor of spearmint floats across the room. Jones on your left has just completed a distorted cartoon of a man riding a horse and now he jogs your elbow and asks for appreciation of his effort. Resolved to keep your good natured disposition, you try to smile but the jerk at your elbow has elicited a blotch of ink from your fountain pen which has spread over a good portion of the day's notes. Smiling becomes rather difficult job.

A good seven minutes is still left of the hour and the lecturer is just winding into an interesting finish, when Williams across the aisle closes his book, puts away his fountain pen, reaches for his hat, and starts to shuffle his feet. At length the lecture ends.

The sun is still shining but not quite as brightly as before. Your ambition is gone and the remainder of your classes seem long and dull.

A is the mark that we seldom see.
B is another poor stranger to me.
C is for cuts of which there are none.
D —what we say when we want something done.
E is for end, the last of the race.
F is for Frosh, whom we keep in his place.
G for the girl we go out to see.
H for the hot place we'd not like to be.
I for Inspection, the bane of our life.
J for Jimnasium, a place full of strife.
K is for King, the boss of them all.
L for the lake where the Frosh all fall.
M for the mud which we'll try not to throw.
N for the sign that means nothing, you know.
O is for oil which we use good and thick.
P for the water we drink when we're sick.
Q for the questions we all like to ask.
R is for nothing—this sure is a task.
S for the swimming tank—cosy and neat.
T for the twins we met down the street.
U for yourself, a dumbbell, no doubt.
V is for vigor we can't do without.
W for the water that we all drink here.
X is a puzzle, we can't solve it, dear.
Y is for youth, a coming young man.
Z stands for zero, tie that if you can.

It will be noted that both the bursary and the scholarship are open only to students of the First Year, and, according to the will of the donor, those of Scottish extraction will be given the preference.

Application should be made to
THE REGISTRAR.

DENTISTRY '27—YOUR ATTENTION, PLEASE

Freshmen of the Faculty of Dentistry are requested to hand their dance fees either to Treasurer Thompson or Secretary Burton immediately as their corporation in this manner will enable the executive to go ahead and make definite arrangements with regard to the Freshman-Sophomore dance to be held on Novembr 13th. Thank you.

EX-OFFICERS

Would all McGill men who served during the war leave their names with Major Forbes in the Union.

RUGBY PLAYERS

All members of the second and third teams who have kitbags in their possession must turn them in at the Field house immediately.

NEW QUARTERS FOR FENCERS.

From information gathered from Major Forbes the Fencing Club, which is now practising in the Union will, after November 12thv, move to the Field House at the west end of the Stadium.

Since last year a new section has been added to the Field House. The new upper floor, large and spacious quarters, is to be devoted to B., W. and F. activities. In past years the club has had difficulties to obtain quarters for practices. This change in arrangements is another attempt to make the B., W. and F. activities run smoothly.

NOTICE

A meeting of the Sub-Committee of the Faculty Club, will be held in Mr. A. P. S. Glassco's office tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock to prepare the constitution.

ARTS DEFEAT SCIENCE MEN TEN TO ONE

Large Crowd Witness Hard-fought Game

MOORE INJURED

Light Fails in Fourth Quarter of Arts Science Game

In a somewhat loose but hard-fought game, Arts defeated Science by a score of 10-1 on the lower campus. The teams were fairly evenly matched in weight and skill and a hard struggle was predicted, resulting in a good turn-out of spectators.

In the first quarter, play was even, both sides bucking and blocking in good style. In the second quarter Science fumbled a catch which Cowan recovered, crossing the line for a touch. Score: Arts 5, Science, 0. Science kicked off. The play seesawed up and down the field; Cottee and A. Moore doing some heavy tackling for Science, Gardner and Bronson going through for gains for Arts. In the third quarter Science forced the pace and came near scoring a touch. Arts held for two downs so Birkett kicked an onside. Arts was downed for a rouge in the ensuing scramble. (5-1). In this period G. W. Moore suffered from a bang on the head and was carried off, but was found later to be not seriously injured.

In the fourth quarter the light failed, making catching very difficult. Arts blocked Birkett's kick, picked up the ball and scored a touch. Neither touch was converted by Arts. Frequent kicks by both sides took the play up and down the field. In the last quarter Science's fumbles lost them many yards.

Bob Hamilton and Cottee, and Alex Moore were the pick of the losers, while Gardner and Myers starred for Arts. Interest in Intefaculty rugby is at the peak and large crowds are expected to be on hand for the ensuing games this week.

Abinovitch of Law refereed the game.

WRESTLERS LEARN PRIMARY HOLDS

Coach Smith is Now Training Many Aspirants

At the regular practice of the Wrestling Club, last night, about forty members were present. Of these there are representative groupes of the various weights, the members in these increasing slightly in the lighter classes.

The work last night, consisted chiefly in the learning to utilize the various holds for getting behind the opponent; and also lifting holds to enable a man to handle his opponent with ease and rythm. That is, to teach him to apply the maximum of force on the minimum point of resistence, and do it with the greatest ease to oneself. To these holds were added some simple co-ordinations, which are, in turn, stepping stones to additional grips and holds; and serve to instruct the man in balancing and retaining poise.

Coach Smith takes the keenest interest in newcomers as well as in the older members; and has shown himself to be untiring in his efforts to develop and train the willing men. To assist him in his demonstrations he has the assistance of G. Rumple the well-known heavy-weight champion.

McGILL RIFLE ASSOCIATION HOLDS SHOOT

Intercollegiate Marksmen Shoot Under Difficulties

HAZE AND RAIN

Scores From Other Universities have not yet been Learned

The McGill Rifle Association held the intercollegiate Shoot recently at Pointe aux Trembles. The competition is under the auspices of the D. C.R.A., which presents a large cup to the winning University, to be held for one year.

The morning of the shoot turned out clear and fine, an ideal day for shooting, except that a strong cross wind swept the range. As the day advanced, the atmosphere became hazy, greatly interfering with the accuracy of the shooting. The weather conditons gradually grew worse until by the time the 600-yard distance was reached, it was raining to such an extent that it was almost impossible to shoot with any degree of accuracy. This did much towards the detriment of what otherwise would have been good scores.

The Associaton heartily appreciated the presence of Dr. H. S. Birkett, Hon. President, who stayed until the competition was finished. Dr. Birkett takes a very keen interest in rifle work and has done a great deal towards the support of the Club. The thanks of the Association is also tendered to Lieut.-Col. Harrison and to Major Lyle, who kindly acted as Range Officers.

The result of the competition will not be known until notice is received from the authorities at Ottawa, as the different Universities shoot on their own ranges on dates set by themselves. The team consists of eight men, making the highest scores who were as follows:

P. S. Hunter	95
S. W. Williams	89
P. R. Wilson	87
W. F. Emmons	86
F. D. Mooney	86
V. Gould	84
D. L. Decellier	83
L. D. Croll	80

Next Saturday a competition will take place for the Birkett Inter-year cup. This cup will be won by the four men making the highest scores for any class, and keen competition is expected. The party will meet at Strathcona Hall, at 8.45, as usual.

EXTRA COURSES ARE ANNOUNCED

Bigger Programme Than Ever for This Season

The Extension Courses for the present season have been announced, and they begin this week. Accounting, English (Shakespeare), English Composition, English Literature, French for Business-men, History, Industrial History, Psychology, Educational Psychology, Social Service, Immigration, Practical Social Work, and Spanish are courses to be given in the Arts Building. Biology is to be given in the Biological Building. French Conversation and French Literature are to be given at the Royal Victoria College. Metallurgy is to be given at the Chemistry and Mining Building.

The details will be announced later of courses to be given after January 1st in Art, Appreciation of Music, Astronomy, Politics, including Canadian Politics, and several other subjects. Besides all the above-mentioned subjects there to be several courses outside the city. There are two courses in English Literature at Shawinigan Falls and one at Sherbrooke. There is a course in Psychology at Quebec, and one in French at Ottawa.

Of particular interest to students are Accounting, which is primarily for graduates of the Faculty of Commerce, and History, primarily for teachers, for whom it will count as one unit of second year work. The Accountancy Course leads to the diploma of C.A., Accountants' offices.

MANY STUDENTS AT WORK WITH FOILS

Men From All Years Are Attending Practices

Over thirty members were present last night at the third practice of the McGill Fencing Club. This is the largest turn-out up to the present time. It is thought, however, that the numbers will be swelled to an even greater degree, in the coming practice; and in order to accomodate this increased membership, arrangements are now being made to have the members of the club receive instructions, at different intervals, from the Coach. Thus the present class will be devided into three sections each section will receive twenty minutes coaching. From five, p.m. until five-twenty p. m. a group of ten or twelve will be coached, and from five twenty, to five forty a second group will receive attention. In this way the instructor will be better able to give each man the required personal guidance.

Since many of the men turning out are from the upper years, it shows to the club and those interested, that the members are not turning out merely for "gym," attendance, but to receive and experience the benefits of this fine sport.

Members have been admitted from every faculty and from almost every year. This unprecedented attendance argues well for the future of the Fencing Club, at McGill. Opinions which have been expressed by representative groups about the college agree that fencing has regained its popularity; and with this new enthusiasm. Interfaculty bouts and championships are thought certain to enter the university.

Last night those present were ably coached and instructed by M. Raimonde, in various lunging and parrying exercises. This work will be added to at additional practices, according to the advancement of the members.

PRESBYTERIANS BANQUET FRESHMEN

Annual Banquet at the Presbyterian College

Last evening about eighty-five persons sat down to the Annual banquet given by the seniors of the Presbyterian College to the Freshman Year. The banquet hall was fittingly decorated for the occasion, indicating that it was the Hallowe'en season. This was most vividly impressed upon the guests by the appearance of a statue-like ghost which wound in among the tables and then silently withdrew.

After the bounteous repast had been cleared away, the toastmaster, V. E. Donawa proposed the toast to the King. He then called upon H. Cousens who proposed the toast to the faculty. In the course of his remarks, Cousens made clear to the Freshmen as well as to the other students the privileges which were to be had under such an excellent curriculum. He also pointed out to the students the great success to which the members of the Faculty had attained in their different spheres of learning. In replying to this toast, Dr. E. M. Best described in vivid language the difference stages of a Freshman's life, and expressed a hope for a better understanding between students and Faculty.

H. R. C. Avison proposed the toast, "The Sister Colleges," voicing the desire that in the near future there would be a better understanding but a union between the different Theological Colleges. This could only be accomplished, he stated, by the co-operation of the individual students. In his reply to this toast, E. B. Eddy of the Congregational College also laid emphasis on the co-operation of the several colleges in realizing this union. He wished the college all prosperity in the future.

The toast to the Freshman was proposed by R. V. Fortune. He pointed out that he spoke with authority by the Freshmen as he had been a freshman four times himself. He welcomed the freshmen to the Presbyterian College and hoped that they would benefit by their connection with this school.

J. E. Taylor, on behalf of the freshmen, thanked the different speakers for their kindly advice, and expressed the hope that their connection with the college would help them to become better citizens.

Mr. Williams, matron of the college, was tendered a vote of thanks by all those present rising and signalling their appreciation by hearty hand-clapping.

After the toasts a short program was given by the freshmen with the following items:—

Recitation W. E. Armstrong.
Musical Selection Ross, Summers, Wood.
School Scene Freshman Troupe
Reading J. B. Jack.
Chorus Freshman Troupe.

At the head table were members of the Faculty, guests from the different colleges, and members of the students council.

A very pleasant evening wa brought to a close by the McGill yell and the singing of "Hail, Alma Mater!"

ORCHESTRA EXPECTING GOOD YEAR

Mandolin Club Hopes to Repeat Past Successes

MR. G. A. PEATE

Noted Mandolin Soloist Will Direct McGill Players

At the last practice of the McGill Madolin Club the keynote of the meeting was a determination to make this year the biggest year in the club's history. When the orchestra is properly organized it intends to play at more college functions and play better than ever before. At the last smoker, Amaron, president of the students' council, paid special tribute to the work of the club and assured it of the support of the student body and since the club itself is financially sound it is only up to the members to make it a good success.

Last year marked the turning point in the existence of the Mandolin Club Hitherto the club had been an institution poorly attended and little known. It had performed at certain college functions and occasionally had undertaken trips to other parts of the country but otherwise it had figured little in the college. Its efforts while not particularly meritorious at least deserved more support than was given it and in consequence the club had langished. Last year however it underwent a revival that brought it at once to the fore as a student organization and as a musical body. Its scope was considerably broadened. Two concerts were given at the Allen Theatre, wholly arranged and carried out by the club. The casual McGill student who happened into the Theatre on these pasticular nights, was a little surprised at the enormous crowd overflowing into the lobbies; the furious applause which was delivered at the conclusion of each number and the wholly pleasing music rendered by the members. There must be something in it. And thereafter the club was accorded all the enthusiasm that could be wished for.

Particularly pleasing has been the comment of many of the well-known music lovers around the college. The "tinny" instrument is unfounded and in a large body these instruments produce a very pleasing brand of music. The brass section of last year's orchestra was particularly strong and was a great assistance.

This year's club shows promise at the present of being strong in mandolins but weak in the brass section. Cornet and saxaphone players are especially asked to turn out. A good 'cellist is also wanted. The fact that the club requires the above men should not deter a man who plays some other instrument from joining. players are welcome and many of the club's best members are men who first turned out with very little previous knowledge of music.

The club is fortunate in having again obtained the services of Mr. G. A. Peate, the eminent mandolin soloist, to direct the orchestra. Mr. Peate has been with the club for more than twelve years and during that time has handled all the musical arrangements and orchestrations and has been a real friend.

It is hoped this year to stage again a McGill-Nite at the Allen and it is the club's fondest ambition to eclipse last year's successes in this line. Predictions as to whether this can or cannot be accomplished may not be made as early as this but with a strengthening of the brass section—and the rooter's band shows that this shortcoming can be easily remedied—the chances are good.

One side of a record was made by the orchestra last year at the Berliner Company's Studio and this year the record is to be completed. This is an unique departure in the history of the club.

Anyone desirous of information about the club may get it from the president, Art Bonscombe or any of the executive. Bob Logan, last year's president, is taking a great interest in the organization and will be glad to show any beginners the "ropes." Joining the club does not involve any fees, the only requirement being diligence and the usual McGill spirit.

A practice of the club will be held tonight at Peate's at 7.30.

SENIOR AND INTERMEDIATE WATER-POLO

Intermediates and Seniors Play M.A.A.A. Tomorrow

GOOD PRACTICE

McGill's Prospects for Championships Now Seem Cheerful

There is much interest being taken this year in Water Polo, and everything would indicate that McGill's chances for coming out at the top of the League, in both the teams which have been entered, Intermediate and Senior, are very good. Vernot, Ross, and Anson of last year's team are out again this year, and are at least as good and if not better than they were last season. Jardine is doing very creditably as goal keeper.

At yesterday's practice about twenty men showed up, which is a good attendance for a Water Polo practice. The McGill Intermediates have played two games so far. They lost to the M. A. A. A. Blues by one goal, and have won from the Y. M. C. A. by one goal. To-morrow at the M. A. A. A. at 8.15 the McGill Seniors', in their first game of the season, meet the M. A. A. A. Seniors and the McGill Intermediates meet the M. A. A. A. Reds. It is to be noted that the M. A. A. A. Reds have not yet lost a game.

The schedules (including only when McGill plays) follow. The games are to be played at the home baths of the second of each pair. The home bath of both McGill and the M. S. C. (Montreal Swimming Club) is that of the Knights of Columbus on Mountain Street.

THE TAMING OF THE SHREW

For the first time in over one hundred years, at least one of the old Blue Laws of New Jersey has been brought into action. On Wednesday, in the Warren County Court, a wise and enlightened jury tried a citizeness of Phillipsburg, and after twenty minutes of deliberation convicted her of being a common scold.

Immediately thereupon arose an interesting legal point. The old law, still on the statute books, commands that any person so convicted be ducked forthwith upon the town ducking stool. Unfortunately for a strict observance of the letter of the mandate, however, all Phillipsburg's ducking stools were either in museums, which refused to give them up, or else had long since been smashed into kindling wood to light Phillipsburg fires of a winter morning. The Judge was in a quandary. The law commanded him in unmistakeable terms to have the malefactress ducked; on the other hand, even a judge cannot duck a lady without a ducking stool, unless he is willing to throw her in bodily—a thing which this magistrate's chivalry absolutely forbade. After hours of mental unrest, he compromised with a suspended sentence of six months in jail, and a fine of three hundred dollars.

Even though the sentence was suspended, the fine appears extraordinarily heavy in comparison with a mere ducking. And not only does it appear unjustly heavy but totally inefficient. For the fiery dame, comparatively, came in to court like a lamb and went out like a lion. While a ducking, if it could have been had, might have dampened her spirits, the only final way of quelling her inconquerable tongue would be to administer the medicine of a certain doctor in Shaw's play. "The Man Who Married a Dumb Wife". It will be remembered that this learned physician unloosed the lady's tongue, and since from then on it was never still, the brow-beaten husband had the doctor tie it up again. But such benign doctors only lived in the Middle Age or in Shaw's imagination. Therefore the one hope remaining to Phillipsburg is that the Damocletian sword of suspended sentence will shortly fall and that the minions of the law with cotton-stuffed ears, will hail this Xantippe to some wild and lonely tower.

—The Harvard Crimson.

THE IMPERIAL

Walter Fishter and Co. in a novel farce replete with subleties are the headliners of a varied and pleasing bill at the Imperial Theatre this week. Vieing with them for premier position is the offering of Olga Hyra and her entertainers. The versatile and graceful dancer is ably supported by her own syncopators who share with her in the prolonged applause that follow their appearance.

The curtain rises on the setting for the act of Lute Brothers, one of whom though armless, plays the trombone the drums and the cornet with credit and uses various carpenters' tools with remarkable ingenuity capping the climax with an exhibition of marksmanship equalled by few ablet-bodied men.

Following this is the act of Flaherty and Stoning, who present soft shoe and step dances; the gentleman finding favour with his style of studied clumsiness.

Perhaps the most finished artiste of them all, is petite and vivacious Zelda Santley who gives uncommonly discerning impersonations of well known actors. Her imitation of Al Jolson gains her an encore and her rendition of certain popular songs displays an unusual emotional ability.

Neil McKinley closes the vaudeville offering with a repertoire of popular songs which is passing good.

Loyal Lives is the simple tale of devoted public servants involved in the unravelling of certain crimes in which they gain tardy recognition. The drama is effectively told.

KEEP UP THE GOOD WORK

OTHER CAMPUSES

Columbia.

"Shakespeare and Washington would fail in English," says Dean Hawkes, "under the old system of examinations which rejects a student if he is a poor speller and ye otherwise competent in the use of the language." The new placement examinations are designed to remedy this condition. In English, for instance, through a spelling test, a vocabulary test, a constructive test and a compoition test, the particular weaknesses of the student may be discovered and isolated. If spelling is his difficulty, he will be admitted to the college course in English, but will be required to take a course in spelling without credit in order to strengthen his weak spot. The adoption of these tests, which all entering students are required to take beifre beginning their studies, is looked upon by University authorities as one of the most important steps in the progres of Columbia's educational methods.

Barnard.

Admission by psychological test, a system recently adopted at Barnard, seems to have given satisfactory results so far, according to the annual repot of Dean Virginia Gildersleeve. The report reads as follows: "Thirty-two were admitted in this way, besides twenty-two on a lombination of psychological test and certain college entrance examinations. It is too soon, of course, to judge the success of this new plan of admission, but so far the results have been very promising. On the whole, the students this year seem to be of unusually good quality."

Connecticut College.

During his summer activities, Dr. Henry Wells Lawrence, Jr.| professor of History and Political Science at Connecticut College, had an opportunity to put into practice an idea long since conceived of "popularizing hisory." He believed that the Sunday papers would be a good medium, for everyone reads them no matter what they contain, though, as it is, they are filled with aricles of a more or less trashy nature. Dr. Lawrence persuaded the editor of the Boston Post to accept a series of articles dealing with the lives of presidents of the United States, with the title of "Little Pictures of Great Men." When the death of President Harding occurred, and Calvin Coolidge succeeded to the presidency, Dr. Lawrence was commissioned to go to Plymouth, Vermont, as the special representative of the Boston Post, to get the story of President Coolidge's life. The result was a series of articles which were syndicated and printed in various newspapers throughout the country.

University of California.

In 1922 the University at Berkeley had 14,367 students, the largest enrollment of any American school. The College of the City of New York was second with 13,744; New York University, third with 12,254. Highland College, in Highland, Kansas, with 20 students, had the smallest enrollment in 1922.

Wellesley.

The work toward the completion of the fund of nine millions for the college, when it celebrates its semi-centennial anniversary in 1925, is going forward steadily. To date, $4,230,000 has been given or pledged, leaving approximately $4,950,000 still to be raised. This latter sum is to be used largely for new buildings, and the temporary wooden buildings of the temporary wooden buildings of the campus, which were erected after the fire in 1914.

Cornell Grows.

The Cornell Student Council has ruled that there shall be no fall underclass rush. The need for rushes no longes exists, affirms the Council, hence the ruling. "The Council believes," goes the statement, "that there is no longer any danger of unorganized rushes for class fights downtown, to avert which was one of the purposes of organized contests of the past. The Council has also found that of late very little interest has been manifested in the rush, and men take part more because they think they ought to than because they desire to." In short, class rivalry of the old order is dead and should be allowed to rest in peace. All of which brings to mind our own child's play in September and June.

Then I look blank and start to shiver.

Then he won't have to montrez-moi.

Other members of the school will compete in November.

DR. LEACOCK WILL ADDRESS EDUCATORS

At Educational Congress of State of Iowa

Dr. Leacock is leaving to-day to attend the educational congress of the State of Iowa. He was invited as a direct result of his address at Convocation last May. It will be remembered that on that occasion he spoke on "Education under Democracy." Dr. Leacock views with alarm the overwhelming tendency in Canadian and American colleges to uniformity in education. The student enters college as a piece of raw material goes into a machine. Here he goes through a number of processes indentical with those of his fellow students. After a certain period of time he is turned out, the finished product, and stamped with his factory's seal, known as a "degree." Dr. Leacock would prefer some method which would give more scope to the students' individuality and personal initiative; something, possibly, more along the lines of the great English university system.

Dr. Leacock has, besides his invitation to the Iowa conference, received many others since his convocation address, with the same purpose in view. Among others, he has refused invitations to address meetings of educationalists in California and Colorado.

the Mock Parliament.

The Interfaculty debates will be held on December third and thirteenth. Before these dates all Interclass debating should be completed and the three best men in each faculty chosen for the faculty team. Five faculties are expected to be represented in the Interfaculty debates: Medicine, Science, Arts, Law and Commerce.

The meeting next took up the question of the Mock Parliament. It was decided to hold the first session on Thursday, November 29th, the second on Monday, November 17th, and a third at a later date.

The members were of the opinion that this year's Mock Parliament should be of a serious nature, one in which there should be an intelligent discussion some important topic, and not one which which should be entirely a farce. Its aim is not to amuse the College but to develop the College along literary lines. The Mock Parliament is the only medium McGill students have of gaining the ability to express sincere opinions in public upon important subjects.

The present prime minister, R. K. Jones, who has graduated in Arts and feels disinclined to carry on with the work, will go into caucus with the Society executive regarding the seiection of a new government leader.

At the close of the meeting the president announced that the Talbot Papineau Memorial Cup for impromtu speaking, last year won by Forsey, would be competed for in March.

E. P. JONES TO ADDRESS THE COMMERCIALS

bre as Mr. Jones are obtained and the privilege to hear Canada's industrial leader comes only to the few.

At 8.30 next Thursday evening, the Commercial Society have their first meeting and it is important that every man is present. It is mainly through this channel that the students of Commerce come in contact with the business world and where is felt the big personalities of men who are controlling the destinies of the Dominion.

This meeting is open to all whether they have paid their Commercial Society fees or not and there is no reason for any absentees.

R.V.C. MUSIC CLUB MEETS THURSDAY

Impromptu Speaking and Musical Programme

The first meeting of the R. V. C. Music Club will take place on thursday, Nov., 1st., at 4 o'clock in the Common Room, R. V. C.

This club is a new one not yet under calender status. Its primary object to promote an interest in and an association of good music among the R. V. C. students.

If this club is to have an important standing in college activities it must first have the support of the students for whose benefit it is formed.

A membership fee of 25c. is required to cover expenses of teas which will make the meetings of a more social character. As this society does not yet receive a grant from the Undergraduate Society and as its funds are very low at present, all intending members are urged to pay their fees immediately.

In order to obtain "calender status" which will recognize the Music Club as on a par with the "Delta Sigma" and the Societe Francaise," there must be an enrollment sufficiently large to merit such a proceeding. All those intersted are requested to give their names to any member of the executive which includes:—

President—Miss Gwen Feelders.
Secy., Treas.—M. Perry.

The music club is singularly fortunate in having as its Honorary President Miss Litchenstein whe has shown a keen interest in the work since the club was formed last year.

The programme for Thursday will take the form of impromptu speaking on subjects connected with music—not serious or "high brow" ones such as "jazz, condensed music,—band concerts, military music" etc. which are ordinary everyday topics. No one need feel herself inadequate to the occasion.

In addition there will be two musical numbers—one vocal, the other instrumental. The names of the artists wil be announced later.

A large attendance is requested for Thursday, Nov. 1st. The future of the R. V. C. Music Club depends on the interest and enthusiasm of the students—without support the executive can do nohing. Those interested are asked to make their interest evident by attending the coming meeting and by taking part in the impromptu speeches.

COMMERCE DEPT. GIVE INSURANCE COURSE

The Quebec division of Life Underwriters Association have suggested to the university authorities that, they would like a course of instruction for life insurance agents and a committee from the School of Commerce has had this under consideration. They have had the assistance of A. G. Wood and Hon. J. C. Tory, of the Sun Life, G. H. Harris, L. M. Hale and T. J. Parkes of Quebec division of Underwriters Association, Lieut-Col. J. Clark Kennedy of Standard Life and A. B. Meiklejohn of Confederation Life. There will be a seventy-two hour course during the second term. Next session this will become an extension course but in the year following it may be thrown open to McGill students. The lectures have not yet been decided on.

WHY GO TO CHURCH

Public worship is necessary to keep alive the spirit of religion. All men are religious, but the religious life must be cultivated if it is to be of virile strength and value. All men have physical strength, but it cannot be properly developed without gymnasiums and regular exercises. All men have intellectual powers, but they must be trained and made strong in the schools. The place of public worship is the gymnasium of the soul. It is the schoolroom of the spirit. Where there is no place of worship there is a race of morally deformed men and spiritual pigmies.

Those who do not take part in public worship soon lose the power and the inclination to worship. Many talk about worshiping God in the open fields and the woods and the mountains, but such worshipers are few. Those who worship in these places are they who have first learned to worship in the places set apart for public worship. The religious life of those who never attend church is apt to be like the intellectual life of those who have never been to school, or like the physical life of those who have never known systematic exercise.

The habit of regular church attendance should be cultivated in youth. Body and mind and soul should grow together. The gymnasium, the school, and the church, are primarily for young people, not for old people.

LADY RODDICK DONATES NEW UNIV. GATES

teacher he at all times retained the perspective of the students under him and with his genial and sociable manner endeared himself to them and to all with whom he came in contact.

An outstanding accomplishment in Dr. Roddick's career was his introduction of the antiseptic methods first employed by Lister to the surgical wards of the General Hospital and thence to every hospital in Canada, thus reducing the mortality in operative work to a minimum. When Lister's work first received publication n 1877, Dr. Roddick left his work in Montreal and journeyed to Edinburgh where for three months he carefully studied and noted the methods of the Great Scientist and it was on his return that he introduced the methods previously mentioned. Among many other achievements, Sir Thomas during his term of office in Parliament was instrumental in having passed the famous "Roddick Bill authorizing the government to appoint a Medical Council of Canada whose diploma enabled one to practice in any of the provinces of the Dominon.

Dr. Roddick received many fitting honours during his life from various sources testifyng to the esteem in which he was held. He obtained an L.L.D. degree from Edinburgh, an F.R.C.S. from England, and while he was offered a D.Sc. from Oxford he was unable to attend the Convocation. In 1914, he was knighted. Along with this he was elected to very prominent positions among which were those of Hon. President of the Medical Council of Canada; President of the Canadian Medical Association, President of the Montreal Medico-Chirurgical Society and probably the highest of all, he was the first Canadian to receive the honour of being President of the British Medical Association.

It is interesting to note that during Sir Thomas' career with McGill three new buildings were added to the Medical faculty. The only Medical building McGill boasted was, when he graduated, situated where the New Biological Building now stands. In 1908 its central hall was destroyed by fire of unknown origin. Following this the front of the old building was rebuilt constituting the present front of the biological building. Later, the new Medical building on Pine Avenue and recently the Biological building were also erected during his association with the University.

On February twentieth of last year, Dr. Roddick, who had been in failing health for some time passed away at his residence on Sherbrooke Street and was deeply mourned by all who knew him. The erection of gates at the entrance to the University comes as a fitting memorial to one who was honoured, respected and loved by McGill men the world over.

Choosing a Profession

Once again the College has settled down to another year's work. During the last month many students have been faced with, have solved, or have atempted to solve the old question of "What course shall I take?"

To a large number of students, especially the freshmen, there is the decision to make whether they shall become Doctors, Lawyers, Engineers, Chemists, Accountants, etc. The majority of these are men or women, who in some cases have come into little contact with the world, and accordingly lack the experience to know what line of work or profession they are most fitted for and in which line they would obtain the greatest enjoyment from life.

Some fortunate few seemed to have grasped by some unknown means the fact that their desires lie in a certain path, other older men have learned by experience and contact with the world that they wish to take up a certain profession.

But to gain experience requires time and it would seem that perhaps some aid could be given to these younger men in the choice of their profession. In this regard would it not be possible to publish a book, containing an article on each profession? These articles to be written by a man of prominence in each line and containing among other things information pertaining to the following:

(1)—Time required to complete the college course with possibly the time required for Post Graduate work.

(2)—A description of the routine life of an average man in each profession or occupation. This would include the hours and the place of work. For some prefer definite hours, others would not mind being required to be on duty continually as is the general medical practitioner. Again some would object to a profession which compelled them to live a lonely life, they would prefer to live in the city. On the other hand, some would prefer an indoor life, others an outdoor.

(3).—Then again there is the ever-present question of renumeration. While one should not go into the profession with the sole object of making money still this is an important consideration. Most people have a certain standard of living and will not be happy unless they are able to live up to it even though they are doing work which they enjoy. Of course there are exceptions. However, the majority should not pick a profession, the average renumeration from which would be insufficient to maintain the standard of one's living. In this regard we all cannot hope to be the great successes of this life, and so the average renumeration of a fairly successful business man in the profession should be given, and also the highest awards to which one may attain.

The responsibilities of the professions should be given, and also thehss also the opportunities for establishing in the chosen business, for oneself.

If given these details, the student, by a process of elimination of those factors which he looks upon with disfavor, should be aided in choosing that profession which contains the greater number of favorable points in his own estimation.

PHYSIOLOGICAL SOCIETY TO MEET

Prof. Tait Will Speak on Recent Research

To-night in the Biological Building the initial meeting of the Physiological Society will take place. The meeting will open at eight o'clock will be an address by Prof. Tait, his subject being new "Lines of Physiological Experiment."

The Physiological Society has always been of intense interest to medical students and all under graduates are cordially invited especially those in first year Medicine and in Arts preparing for a medical course. In years past there have been some excellent meetings, the Society being extremely fortunate in securing speakers of a very high order and this, the opening meeting of the session gives promise of being no exception to the rule. To those who have taken lectures under Prof. Tait needs no introduction but to the others suffice it to say that he is a physiologist of world fame and can be depended upon to present his subject "New Lines of Physiological Experiment" in a way that will be interesting and at the same time most instructive.

GOLPHERS' COLUMN

Although the earliest picture of the game of golf appeared in a book published in Bruges in the early XVIth century, it is probable that golf talk had been heard fully a hundred years before. Golf, though admittedly domiciled in Scotland, originated in Holland. Doubtless first a game played on ice, it soon appeared on land, where it was immediately made unique and special among ball games through the fact that the final haven of the ball was a hole in the ground. To the Dutch, therefore, we owe the origin of the game—it is they who brought muckle pain into this bally world. The Dutch word kolf means a club, and no other language puts forth so strong a phonetic claim for the honor of having named the game. The early Dutchmen played golf, they painted golf, they talked golf, but they did not write it. Perhaps this omission is explained by G. B. Shaw's maxim: "They who can, do; they who cannot, teach."

MEDICAL CORPS FORMED AT McGILL

C.O.T.C. Offers Training in First Aid

Military training is now becoming more and more a part of a college career, this fact is very evident from the way in which the universities in the United States are backing up their training corps. Nor is Canada far behind them. The C.O.T.C.'s in this country are receiving great support from the heads of the universities and the Government are doing everything in its power to make the training fit in with the wants of every individual. The latest course offered by the C.O.T.C. is that of training for the examination for a commission in the Army Medical Corps.

The C.O.T.C. have made arrangements that any man that is interested in this course will get a special training in this work. The course is open to all men in the medical faculty and any other men who have had a year's training in C.O.T.C. or previous military training. The men will be Army Medical Corps which will make trianed for their A certificate in the them eligible to take a commission in the above corps. The practical examination will cover the following subjects; squad and platoon drill; stretcher drill First Aid; map reading. There will also be written examinations in the following subjects: working an Army Medical Corps in with other arms; prevention and care of diseases prevalent in the Army; and sanitation. Lectures will be given by authorities in these subjects. This is the only course that is given in First Aid in McGill University.

It is probable that any man who gets his A certificate will be able to go to camp with full pay during the summer. The practical course will be given at the regular weekly parades on Monday nights from 5 to 10 P.M. Any man who is interested will get any further information from the orderly room or from Tidmarsh Med. '24 or Quackenbush Med. '24.

Edith: "Did you hear about Betty? She has a position as detective in one of the big department stores."

Evelyn: "Well, I don't envy her. Imagine being known as a plain-clothes woman."

The Optimistic salesmen having a few hours to spare, decided to dine at the village hotel.

One of them turned to the pretty waitress and said "How's the chicken?"

"Oh, I am all right," she blusned, "How are you?"

One—"I see by the paper that Angle left town after a short stop."

Father—No wonder, she was always crazy about athletes."
